9.3.3 Autothermal reforming. Autothermal reforming (ATR) combines the steam reforming reaction and fuel oxidation into a single unit, the exothermic oxidation providing the heat for the endothermic reforming process. ATR is popular for smallerscale hydrogen generation and affords higher H₂ production than POX and faster start-up and response times than steam reforming. Independent control of ...

1 The term “risk marker” is used throughout this section. This is in keeping with the distinction made by Kraemer and colleagues (1997), in which a marker has a documented association with a later outcome, and a factor has substantiation that the observed association with the later outcome is causal (i.e., changing the risk factor has been shown to reduce the likelihood of the outcome ...
