The Second Sudanese Civil War was a conflict from 1983 to 2005 between the central Sudanese government and the Sudan People's Liberation Army. It was largely a continuation of the First Sudanese Civil War of 1955 to 1972. Although it originated in southern Sudan, the civil war spread to the Nuba mountains and the Blue Nile. It lasted for 22 years and is one of the longest civil wars on record.

Even with the signing of the National Accord, where power sharing was addressed under Agenda 3, controversy continues to cloud the centre of power. This has led to a rise in tensions among their various supporters and the ethnic cleavages continue to deepen. Issues of peace, reconstruction and reconciliation can only begin with an acknowledgment that the structures and systems of government ...
